

BURNING TRESTLE CAUSE WRECK

Fast Train on Southern Meets Accident Near Rome, Ga.

Rome, Ga., April 21.—Section one of Train No. 13, of the Southern railway, Atlanta to Chattanooga, was wrecked in a burning trestle 6½ miles of Rome about 7:20 o'clock this morning.

The engine passed over the trestle but two of the cars went into the burning structure.

No one was killed, but several of the crew were injured. There were no passengers as this section carried only baggage, express and mail cars.

The damage to the train is reported very heavy after going into the trestle. The train caught fire, but the flames were extinguished before very much damage was done. Trains were made up in Rome and sent to the scene of the wreck, where transfers were made and only a few hours' delay was occasioned.

It will be several days before the track and trestle can be repaired.

Wild rumors to the effect that many of the crew were killed outright spread abroad but are false.
